25 COMPANY, Defendant KELLOGG SALES COMPANY, Defendant
26 KELLOGG USA INC, Defendant KEEBLER HOLDING CORP,

COMPLAINT-CLASS ACTION AND
FLSA COLLECTIVE ACTION - 1

FRANK FREED
SUBIT & THOMAS LLP
SUITE 1200 HOGUE BUILDING, 705 SECOND AVENUE
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON 98104-1798
(206) 682-6711

1           COMPANY (hereafter “Kellogg”) to pay Plaintiff Territory Managers and
2           Retail Store Representatives overtime premium pay as required by the Fair
3           Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. §§ 201 et seq., the Washington Minimum
4           Wage Act, other Washington State wage and hour laws, and any associated
5           regulations.

7           2. Kellogg employed Thomas as a Territory Manager from April 2012 to 8           February 2013. The job responsibilities of Territory Managers include
9           replenishing merchandise in Kellogg’s customers’ stores, placing merchandise
10          on store shelves, and monitoring how much merchandise is in Kellogg’s
11          customers’ storerooms.

12          3. Kellogg employed Thomas as a Retail Store Representative (“RSR”) from 13          January 2007 to April 2012. The job responsibilities of RSRs include stocking
14          shelves, making sure Kellogg’s products were displayed, and ensuring that 15          Kellogg has access to the correct square footage on Kellogg’s customers’
16          shelves.

18          4. Thomas and the other Territory Managers and Retail Store Representatives
19          regularly worked in excess of 40 hours in a week for which Kellogg did not 20          pay them overtime premium wages. Thomas and the other Territory Managers
21          and Retail Store Representatives that worked in Washington State did not 22          receive meal and rest breaks.

24          5. This case seeks to compel Kellogg to pay Thomas and a class of similarly 25          situated employees all of the wages they earned, plus liquidated damages under 26          the Fair Labor Standards Act.

6. By the conduct described in this Complaint, Kellogg has violated the Fair Labor Standards Act (“FLSA”), the Washington Minimum Wage Act, and Washington wage and hour laws by failing to pay its employees proper overtime compensation. These violations arose out of Kellogg’s company-wide policies, and pattern or practice of violating wage and hour laws.
7. Thomas brings individual and representative claims to remedy these overtime violations. She brings FLSA claims as a nationwide collective action, on her own behalf and on behalf of other similarly situated employees, under 29 U.S.C. §§ 201 et seq., and specifically, the collective action provision, 29 U.S.C. § 216(b). (First Cause of Action)
8. Thomas brings individual and representative wage overtime claims under the Washington Minimum Wage Act (MWA), RCW 49.46, RCW 49.48, and RCW 49.52, and state regulations issued thereunder, as a class action pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23. (Second Cause of Action)
9. Thomas and other individual Retail Store Representatives opt-ins bring individual wage overtime claims under the Washington Minimum Wage Act (MWA), RCW 49.46, RCW 49.48, and RCW 49.52, and state regulations issued thereunder. (Third Cause of Action)
10. This case seeks to compel Kellogg to pay Thomas and the members of the Rule 23 Washington Class, other Retail Store Representatives that file a consent to sue all of the wages they earned, plus double damages under Washington State law.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

11. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1337.

12. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Thomas' state law claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332 and 1367.

13. In addition, the Court has jurisdiction over Thomas' claims under the FLSA pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

14. Upon information and belief, Kellogg is subject to personal jurisdiction in Washington.

15. This Court is empowered to issue a declaratory judgment pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202.

16. Venue is proper in the Western District of Washington pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b) and (c) because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred in this District and Kellogg is subject to personal jurisdiction here.

17. Kellogg has employed Thomas, Territory Managers, and Retail Store Representatives in this District since at least 2007.

18. Kellogg resides in this District. Kellogg has an office and warehouse located at 2201 140th Ave East, Suite 800, Sumner, Washington 98390.

19. Kellogg conducts business in this District. Kellogg distributes and sells its products in this District. Kellogg provides its products to customers within this District.

THE PARTIES

Plaintiff

20. Plaintiff Thomas' written consent to be party to this action is attached hereto.

21. Plaintiff Thomas resides in Lacey, Washington.

22. Kellogg employed Plaintiff Thomas in Washington from approximately January 2007 until approximately February 2013.

23. Pursuant to Kellogg's policy and pattern or practice, Plaintiff Thomas regularly worked more than 40 hours per week for Kellogg's benefit without receiving overtime compensation at the rate of time and one-half her regular rate.

24. Also pursuant to Kellogg's policy and pattern or practice, Thomas regularly worked for Kellogg's benefit without meal or rest breaks as required by Washington Industrial Welfare law (RCW 49.12.020) and associated regulations (WAC 296-126-092).

25. Thomas was engaged in commerce in her work for Kellogg.

Represented Parties under the FLSA

26. The term "Plaintiffs" as used in this Complaint refers to the named Plaintiff and any additional represented class members pursuant to the collective action provision on 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

27. Thomas brings FLSA claims, the First Cause of Action, on behalf of herself and a class defined as:

All persons who have worked for Kellogg in Washington as a Territory Manager or a Retail Store Representative between three years prior to the filing of a Consent to Sue in this case and the date of final judgment in this matter and were not paid overtime premium pay at the rate of time and one-half for working more than 40 hours in a work week (the "FLSA Collective Action Class").

1 28. Thomas brings this case as a collective action for class members throughout
 2 the United States as defined in the preceding paragraph, under the collective 3 action provision of the FLSA as set forth in 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

5 29. Kellogg is liable under the FLSA for, inter alia, failing to properly compensate
 6 Thomas and the FLSA Collective Action Class. Upon information and belief,
 7 there are many similarly situated current and former employees of Kellogg
 8 who have been underpaid in violation of the FLSA who would benefit from the 9 issuance of a court-supervised notice of the present lawsuit and the opportunity
 10 to join the present lawsuit. Those similarly situated employees are known to 11 Kellogg, are readily identifiable, and can be located through Kellogg's records.
 12 Notice should be sent to the FLSA Collective Action Class pursuant to 13 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).
 14

15 Class Action Allegations

16 30. Plaintiff Thomas brings the Second Cause of Action for unpaid overtime under 17 Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, on behalf of herself and a 18 class of persons consisting of:
 19

20 All persons who have worked for Kellogg in Washington as a 21 Territory Manager between three years prior to the filing of this 22 Complaint and the date of final judgment in this matter and were not paid overtime for working more than 40 hours in a workweek (the "Washington Class").

23 31. Excluded from the Washington Class are Kellogg's legal representatives, 24 officers, directors, assigns, and successors, or any individual who has, or who 25 at any time during the class period has had, a controlling interest in Kellogg;
 26 the Judge(s) to whom this case is assigned and any member of the Judges'
 27

1 immediate family; and all persons who will submit timely and otherwise
2 proper requests for exclusion from the Washington Class.

3 32. The persons in the Washington Class identified above are so numerous that 4 joinder of all members is impracticable. Although the precise number of such 5 persons is not known to Thomas, the facts on which the calculation of that 6 number can be based are presently within Kellogg's sole control.

8 33. Upon information and belief, the size of the Washington Class is at least 40
9 workers.

10 34. Kellogg acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the 11 Washington Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief or 12 corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the Washington Class as a 13 whole.

14
15 35. The Second Cause of Action is properly maintainable as class actions under 16 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(3). There are questions of law and fact 17 common to the Washington Class that predominate over any questions solely 18 affecting individual members of the Washington Class, including but not 19 limited to:

- 20 a. whether Kellogg misclassified Thomas and the Washington Class as 21 exempt from the overtime pay provisions of the Washington law,
22 including the Minimum Wage Act;
- 23 b. whether Kellogg paid Thomas and the Washington Class for all the 24 hours they worked;
- 25 c. whether Kellogg had a duty to pay Thomas and the Washington Class
26 members overtime premium pay for hours worked in excess of 40
27 hours per work week;

- d. whether Kellogg failed and/or refused to pay Thomas and the Washington Class, overtime premium pay for hours worked in excess of 40 hours per work week;
  - e. the nature and extent of each Washington Class-wide injury and the appropriate measure of damages for each member of the Washington Class;
  - f. whether Kellogg's policy of failing to pay overtime was instituted willfully or with reckless disregard of the law;
  - g. whether Kellogg lawfully classified Thomas and the Washington Class as exempt from the overtime pay provisions of Washington law, including the Minimum Wage Act;
  - h. whether Kellogg's policy and practice of failing to pay Thomas and the Washington Class all wages due within the time provided by law violates Washington law, including the Wages--Payment--Collection law;
  - i. whether Kellogg violated Washington wage and hour laws, including the Industrial Welfare law, by failing to provide Thomas and members of the Washington Class with appropriate meal and rest breaks; and
  - j. whether Kellogg violated Washington wage and hour laws by failing to keep records of the hours Thomas and members of the Washington Class worked.
36. Thomas' claims are typical of the claims of the Washington Class she seeks to represent. Thomas and the Washington Class work or have worked for Kellogg and have been subjected to their policy and pattern or practice of failing to pay overtime wages for hours worked in excess of 40 hours per week, and failing to provide meal and rest breaks. Kellogg acted and refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Washington Class, thereby making declaratory relief with respect to the Washington Class appropriate.
37. Thomas will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of the Washington Class. She understands that, as a class representative, she assumes a fiduciary responsibility to the Washington Class to represent its interests

1 fairly and adequately. Thomas recognizes that as a class representative, she 2 must represent and consider the interests of the Washington Class just as she
3 would represent and consider her own interests. She understands that in 4 decisions regarding the conduct of the litigation and its possible settlement, she 5 must not favor her own interests over those of the Washington Class. She 6 recognizes that any resolution of a class action lawsuit, including any 7 settlement or dismissal thereof, must be in the best interests of the Washington
8 Class. Thomas understands that in order to provide adequate representation, 9 she must remain informed of developments in the litigation, cooperate with 10 class counsel by providing them with information and any relevant
11 documentary material in their possession, and testify, if required, in a 12 deposition and in trial.
13

15 38. Thomas has retained counsel competent and experienced in complex class
16 action employment litigation.

17 39. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient
18 adjudication of this litigation – particularly in the context of wage litigation 19 like the present action, where individual plaintiffs may lack the financial 20 resources to vigorously prosecute a lawsuit in federal court against a corporate 21 defendant. The members of the Washington Class have been damaged and are 22 entitled to recovery as a result of Kellogg's common and uniform policies, 23 practices, and procedures. Although the relative damages suffered by 24 individual members of the Washington Class are not de minimis, such 25 damages are small compared to the expense and burden of individual
26
27

1 prosecution of this litigation. In addition, class treatment is superior because it
2 will obviate the need for unduly duplicative litigation that might result in 3 inconsistent judgments about Kellogg's practices.

16 CLASS-WIDE FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

17 78. Upon information and belief, Kellogg employed 40 or more Territory
18 Managers in Washington State, within the last three years.

19 79. During their period of employment, members of the Washington Class were 20 required to work more than 40 hours in a week in order to complete all of their

23 to less than one half their income.

24 81. Washington Class members regularly worked more than 40 hours in a week.

25 82. Kellogg did not pay Thomas or other Washington Class members an overtime premium pay for the hours they worked over 40 in a week.
26
27

83. Kellogg failed to provide Thomas and the Washington Class meal and rest breaks as required by Washington State law, including the Washington Industrial Welfare law (RCW 49.12.020) and associated regulations (WAC 296-126-092).

84. Upon information and belief, it was Kellogg's willful policy and pattern or practice not to pay its employees, including Thomas, the Washington Class members, and the FLSA Collective Action Class members (collectively "FLSA Class"), any overtime premium pay for work that exceeded 40 hours in a week.

85. Kellogg's unlawful conduct, as set forth in this Complaint, has been intentional, willful, and in bad faith, and has caused significant damages to Thomas and the FLSA Class.

86. Kellogg was aware or should have been aware that the law required it to pay non-exempt employees, including Thomas and the FLSA Class, an overtime premium of time and one half for all work hours it suffered or permitted in excess of 40 per work week. Upon information and belief, Kellogg applied the same unlawful policies and practices to workers nationwide.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
Fair Labor Standards Act: Unpaid Wages
On behalf of Thomas and the FLSA Collective

87. Thomas re-alleges and incorporates by reference all allegations in all preceding paragraphs.

88. Kellogg failed to pay overtime premium wages to Plaintiffs in violation of the

1 Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. §§ 207 et seq. and its implementing
2 regulations.

3 89. Kellogg's failure to pay proper wages for each hour worked over 40 per week
4 was willful within the meaning of the FLSA.

5 90. As a result of Kellogg's violations of the FLSA, Thomas and the FLSA
6 Collective Action Class have suffered damages by being denied overtime
7 wages in accordance with the FLSA, and are entitled to recovery of such 8 amounts, liquidated damages, prejudgment interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and 9 other compensation pursuant to 29 U.S.C. §§ 201 et seq.
10

11 SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

12 Unpaid Overtime and Failure to Provide Meal and Rest Breaks under 13 Washington State Law On behalf of Plaintiff Thomas and the Washington Class 14 Members

15 91. Thomas re-alleges and incorporates by reference all allegations in all preceding 16 paragraphs.

17 92. RCW 49.46.130 requires Kellogg to pay the Washington Class members one 18 and one-half times the regular rate at which they are/were employed for all
19 hours worked over 40 per work week.

20 93. RCW 49.46.090 makes employers who violate RCW 49.46.130, such as 21 Kellogg, liable to the affected employees in the amount of unpaid wages,
22 double damages, prejudgment interest, costs, attorneys' fees, and other
23 appropriate relief under the law.

24 94. Kellogg's actions, policies, and/or practices as described above violate RCW
25 49.46.130 by regularly and repeatedly failing to compensate Thomas and the 26 Washington Class at the required overtime rate.
27

95. Kellogg's failure to pay proper wages for each hour worked over 40 per week was willful and with intent to deprive Thomas and the Washington Class members of their wages, within the meaning of the Washington State law and keep such unpaid wages as profits for itself.

96. Kellogg's failure to provide Thomas and members of the Washington Class meal and rest breaks violated Washington Industrial Welfare law (RCW 49.12.020) and associated regulations (WAC 296-126-092).

97. As the direct and proximate result of Kellogg's unlawful conduct, Thomas and the Washington Class have suffered and will continue to suffer a loss of income and other damages. Thomas and the Washington Class are entitled to damages, including interest thereon, as well as attorneys' fees and costs, incurred in connection with this claim.

98. Because Kellogg's failure to pay proper wages for each hour worked over 40 per week and failure to provide meal and rest breaks was willful, Thomas and the members of the Washington Class are entitled to exemplary damages in amounts equal to the wages due, pursuant to RCW 49.52.050 and 070.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

Unpaid Overtime under Washington State Law

On behalf of Plaintiff Thomas and Opt-in Washington Retail Store

Representatives

99. Thomas re-alleges and incorporates by reference all allegations in all preceding paragraphs.

100. RCW 49.46.130 requires Kellogg to pay Thomas and opt-in Washington Retail Store Representatives one and one-half times the regular rate at which they are/were employed for all hours worked over 40 per work week.

101. RCW 49.46.090 makes employers who violate RCW 49.46.130, such as Kellogg, liable to the affected employees in the amount of unpaid wages, double damages, prejudgment interest, costs, attorneys' fees, and other appropriate relief under the law.

102. Kellogg's actions, policies, and/or practices as described above violate RCW 49.46.130 by regularly and repeatedly failing to compensate Thomas and opt-in Washington Retail Store Representatives at the required overtime rate.

103. Kellogg's failure to pay proper wages for each hour worked (including compensable meal and break time) over 40 per week was willful and with intent to deprive Thomas and any opt-in Washington Retail Store Representatives their wages, within the meaning of the Washington State law and keep such unpaid wages as profits for itself.

104. As the direct and proximate result of Kellogg's unlawful conduct, Thomas and opt-in Washington Retail Store Representatives have suffered and will continue to suffer a loss of income and other damages. Thomas and each opt-in Washington Retail Store Representative are entitled to damages, including interest thereon, as well as attorneys' fees and costs, incurred in connection with this claim.

105. Because Kellogg's failure to pay proper wages for each hour worked over 40 per week was willful, Thomas and each opt-in Washington Retail Store Representative are entitled to exemplary damages in amounts equal to the wages due, pursuant to RCW 49.52.050 and 070.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Thomas, individually and on behalf of the FLSA Collective Action Class, prays for the following relief:
